ENGLISH MUSTARD as a cool color, is announced in the fashion papers. What will be offered as spicy?

THE ENGLISH have adopted the American business term "corner," and consider it neat, convenient and comprehensive.

A POST-OFFICE PARCEL put up at auction in Germany on account of an untellable direction proved to be a goose with $75 tucked neatly under its left wing.

A PARA-ELECTRIC will soon be called for to defend the eyes from the glare of the illuminated streets. It will be the third grade to accompany the parol and the parlane.

THE WESTERN DEPARTMENTS of Russia have been burned as bare as Michigan, and to add to the horror of the case the numerous fires are believed to be of incendiary origin.

FAUST REPENTING all his evil deeds made a new land for the habitation of the poor sons of toil. New York wants to save her soul in the same way by dumping her dirt into an island.

NEW JERSEY is planting her rivers with fish, and luckless will be the lad who ventures to play piscator in her waters with dynamite. Hanging will be found too good for him.

IT IS NOW understood that Mr. Arthur will make a Cabinet without consulting Joe Medill, Whitelaw Reid, George Jones, or Mewar Halstead. This is believed to be refined cruelty on Mr. Arthur's part.

THE New York Herald considers it highly important that the steamer Corwin has reached Herald Island, on the outskirts of the Arctic Ocean. It will be more important to learn that the Corwin has returned.

THE CONSERVATIVE party of Russia is so weary of dynamite that it proposes that the government should return to Moscow, a staid and sober city that has never been blown up save in presence of the foreign foe.

SOME PEOPLE are beginning to doubt the efficacy of prayer. Garfield was prayed for by a whole nation and without effect. It seems like a curious proposition, but people should remember that the answering of prayers rests with a court from which there is no appeal.

WE THINK that Capt. Howgate's great mistake was in not taking command of his latest polar expedition in person. With his facilities for scientific observation the Captain should have been able to foresee that this latitude would soon prove far too southerly for him.

IN THE MIND of these terrible times, when complications are arising so fast that it is hard to keep track of them, we beg to observe that the coal-hole to the White House should be enlarged. Some gentlemen who didn't believe in Mr. Arthur will need some means of access to the Executive Mansion.

DURING OUR last visit to the metropolis we noted that the defenses of Fort Sherman, corner of Broadway and Wall, were being put in condition to stand a siege. This is labor thrown away. The military policy of the new Administration contemplates the taking of Fort Sherman by direct assault.

ACCORDING to the New York World, "United States Senator Wm. Mahone, Capt. John S. Wise and James D. Brady, president of the Republican State Central Committee, all of Virginia, arrived at the Gilley House yesterday, and almost immediately afterward went out." This, we presume, is merely a rehearsal. They will "go out" officially in November.

MILFORD HAYES was a famous seaport in the time of Cymbeline and Imogen, but it has since gone out of fashion, and steamships from America go 300 miles out of their way in their preference for Liverpool. Via Milford, New Yorkers would save several hours on the route to the place called Lud's town by Cymbeline, but now popularly known as London.

A STRONG MOVEMENT is on foot in Illinois to make David Davis the presiding officer of the Senate. As David has already remarked that he would not receive honor at the hands of either party, it is fair to infer that he would decline. David is financially able to buy a lightning rod, but we would not recommend the extravagance. He is in no immediate danger.

HE WAS LE DUE'N BOBBY. The sorghum is the peculiar variety of Dr. Loring, Jr., Commissioner of Agriculture must needs have some idea upon which to expend the wealth of his affection and ventilate his ignorance. Will the day ever come when a practical agriculturist, who knows something of farming and the wants and needs of the farming community, shall be placed at the head of this bureau, now utterly useless, but which might be of the greatest utility and value to the Indianapolis Journal.

WE DON'T agree with the proposition to place a practical man there, for he might disturb the appropriations for luxuries and experiments, and a country of fifty millions that can't experiment ought to shut up shop.

THE LARGE JOURNALISTIC pus-convity known as the New York Tribune seems to be in a state of immoderate discharge and the motion recently filed in the Criminal Court here to quash a certain irregular and imperfect process called "information," is the opinion of every lawyer who has examined this document that, apart from its irregular character, it is fatally defective in substance, in that it nowhere sets out a statutory offense with the degree of specification necessary for the arraignment of an alleged offender. But that makes no difference with the journalists' pus-convity aforesaid. Probably if the court, upon hearing, should rule that the "information" in question failed to set out a statutory offense, the p.e. aforesaid would demand the removal of the judge.

AFTER ALL, the most important result of the New York Convention was the formal selection of Warner Miller as Boss of the Republican party for the ensuing year, vice Roscoe Conkling, resigned. The Stalwart minority, with the co-operation of a few of the less violent Half-breeds, made an effort to dispose with the selection of a Boss, but Mr. Miller, who seems to be an ambitious cuss, and who, moreover, appeared to consider this the only opportunity he would ever have, insisted, and the obedient Half-breeds humored his fancy. It must be understood, however, that the selection of the Hon. Miller to be Boss of the party for the ensuing year was in the nature of a compromise, by which sundry other manifestations of Half-breed wrath and revenge were omitted.

Upon reflection and consultation it was decided that the elevation of the Hon. Miller to the Bossship lately vacated by Mr. Conkling would be a sufficiently rebuke to the latter, and, therefore, the hysterical resolutions of excommunication which Ellis H. Roberts had brought in his pocket from Utica should be ignored. On the whole we think the compromise was well enough. The Hon. Miller, as a Boss, will resemble his predecessor in about the same proportion that a grasshopper resembles a race-horse. Of course, the machine will be reconstructed. The resolution providing for reorganization of the party in the cities of New York and Brooklyn, passed after a warm debate by the slender majority of five in a total vote of four hundred means simply that the old machine so long and so successfully operated by Mr. Conkling and his able lieutenants is to be sold for old iron—or, more strictly speaking, old brass—and a brand new machine is to be constructed of wood-pulp and papier-mache for the use of the Hon. Miller, Robertson, et al.

We suppose that the step-ladder which the inventive Half-breeds at Albany introduced for the first time into American statesmanship will be included as one of the side fixtures of the new Miller machine; likewise, perhaps, the transom through which Mr. Tom Platt was alleged to have been discovered in the act of preparing to withdraw from the Senatorial race.

Whether Sessions is to be employed as chief lubricator of the new Miller machine, doubtless depends upon the verdict of the petit jury at the forthcoming term of the Albany County Court of Oyer and Terminer.

And this is harmony!

Meantime we extend our heartfelt sympathy to Frank Hiseock, who, with a possible speakership prefigured in his mind's eye, sought to conciliate everybody and brought up in a recumbent posture with the adipose legs of the new Boss astride his statesmanlike stomach. Frank should lose no time in getting a permit from Boss Miller to ask the support of the New York delegation in Congress for the Speakership. We say this in view of the fact that Hiseock, after having been unanimously agreed upon for temporary chairman by a conference committee of the two factions, incontinently withdrew as soon as he learned that Boss Miller wanted the place himself, and for fear that his withdrawal was not sufficient tribute, voted for his master in a loud voice. There can be no doubt that so far as inspiring awe and terror among his followers is concerned, Boss Miller is a success. But the all-important test of the qualifications of a Boss is his ability to carry the State. For a decision on this point we must wait till the idea of November.

If the Democrats should happen to carry the State, Legislature and all, the winter of Boss Miller's discontent might happily set in. It should be borne in mind that the new Boss has never yet tinged his lymphatic centre upon a seat in the Senate, and that his credentials may be accompanied by charges of bribery, which will compel a patriotic majority of Democrats to review the same prior to any further proceedings. Under all these circumstances Boss Miller may find out eventually that great and sudden complicity brings his penalties along with his joys. It is possible that the Hon. Miller may live to wish that he had never made his obedient Half-breeds elect him Boss.

HE WANTED A DIVORCE. Ben Mullett, a colored man, came into the Rock, Ark., and, finding the United States judge, said: "I've got a piece of business fer yer to transact." "Well," replied the judge, "proceed." "I have a wife," said Mullett, "and I want to get a divorce from her. But why do you wish to sever the ties that bind you to a companion who, in all probability, I much too good for you? 'Kase I can't get along with him, Judge." "Him?" "Yes, sah—him!" "You didn't marry a man, did you?" "No, sir. I married a woman, did you?" "Yes, sah—her!" "I don't want no divorce from her. I want a divorce from my son." "You've your son?" "Yes, sah—him!" "I don't want no divorce from my son. I want a divorce from my son's wife. 'Kase I can't get along with her, Judge." "Him?" "Yes, sah—him!" "You didn't marry a man, did you?" "No, sir. I married a woman, did you?" "Yes, sah—her!" "I don't want no divorce from her. I want a divorce from my son." "You've your son?" "Yes, sah—him!" "I don't want no divorce from my son.
